ARTIST STATEMENT:

The human condition is an endless source of fascination. How can we search for meaning while negotiating the promises and demands of consumer society? What can mundane actions tell us about an individual's relationship to the self, to others, or the Universe? Might awkward pauses, glottal stops, wordplay, or shrieks open new avenues to the inner recesses of the mind? Is the quickest way to the human soul through the eye, the brain, or the stomach? Which will redeem us: conceptual art or slapstick comedy?

I am driven by language, humor, gesture, and composition. I perform for the camera in the tradition of DADA, physical comedians, or minimalist dancers, finding comedy, poetry, and pathos in everyday gesture. I structure these repetitive movements into compositions that I project onto physical structures, or play on stacked TVs. The various projected bodies or heads are instances of myself: crawling, chanting, or simply being.

I am home in the spaces and practices of consumer culture, and in the minimalist world of the 20th century avant-garde. I work both intuitively and conceptually, posing serious questions about identity, culture, and language. I hope to manifest personal and collective ideas of time, determinism, humanity, work, and freedom. And I always strive to create open works that leave room for the viewer's associations and experiences.
